The American Orthopaedic Association (AOA) and Zimmer, Inc. awarded Reginald R. Cooper, MD, the Fourth Annual AOA-Zimmer Award for Distinguished Contributions to Orthopaedics at the 118th Annual AOA Meeting in June 2005.

The award is presented annually to recognize outstanding leaders in orthopaedic surgery whose work results in sustained and substantial contributions and leadership through clinical, educational, research or other meritorious means. The $50,000 award was presented to Cooper because of his role in enhancing and shaping the specialty.

"I would like to thank the AOA and the selection committee for this prestigious honor. This award ranks among the top tier of all honors that I have received throughout my career," said Cooper. "To be selected by a group of peers for career lifetime achievement has great meaning. As I review the accomplishments I have made, I understand the critical role of the many truly great persons that I have had the good fortune to work with over many years."

Cooper served as Chairman of Orthopaedics at the University of Iowa in Iowa City, IA, for 26 years until 1999. He was President of the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons and the Orthopaedic Research Society, and served as Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Journal of Bone and Joint Surgery. Letter from the Alumni Association President

Greetings to alumni and friends of Potomac State College of West Virginia University. Those who attended the Homecoming 2005 festivities enjoyed a weekend of renewing friendships and honoring outstanding graduates and contributors to the institution. Coach Doug Little

Little Honored as "Coach of the Year"

Head Coach Doug Little was selected as the "College Coach of the Year" by the Mid-Atlantic Professional Baseball Scouts Association (MAPBSA).

Little was honored during an awards ceremony held at the Baltimore Marriott Inner Harbor at Camden Yards in Baltimore, MD on Friday, December 2, 2005. Orioles Manager Sam Perlozzo was the main speaker for the ceremony.

According to Ty Brown, president of MAPBSA, coaches are nominated and then ballots are sent out to approximately 150 members for voting, which include primarily professional baseball scouts and executives. To win this prestigious award, Little was in competition with nominations from NCAA Division I, Division II, Division III schools and other Junior Colleges.

While consideration is given for a coach's win/loss record, the quality of a person, their character and their ethics also influence the members' choice. "I have known Doug for many years, not only is he an effective coach who has taken his team to the NJCAA Division I World Series the past two years, but he also cares about what type of men his players become," said Brown. "We have honored only two other Junior College coaches in the past 20 years and both of them won the National Junior College Championship the previous year," he added.

Web site Sports New Look

Alumni are invited to check out the College's enhanced Web site that touts our new slogan, "Start Smart," at www.potomacstatecollege.edu.

"We're also proud of our new virtual tour," says Rene Trezise, Director of Marketing and Communications. "Through focus groups with high school students, we learned that students wanted to see more of our campus so we put it front and center on the Homepage," says Trezise. "Not only will virtual visitors see updated photographs with descriptions but they can also experience a roving 360-degree photograph of the campus quad. This new feature definitely captures the beauty of our campus."

Also new to the site is a Historic Photo of the Month under the Alumni & Friends section. This is where the College calls on the memories of its alumni to help gather information about photographs taken from the archives. Each month a different photograph is posted for alumni to provide feedback identifying individuals and telling the College what they remember about the event. "Even if you can't help us with the photograph but have an interesting story relating to the event, we're interested in learning about that too," says Trezise. Alumni can respond by e-mailing Libby Nichols at LMNichols@mail.wvu.edu. Comments will be posted on the Web site the following month.
